New clinical data reinforce the efficacy of this comprehensive eye contour solution across multiple signs of fatigue and ageing

Already proven effective against wrinkles, puffiness and dark circles, R(II) Eyes now benefits from new clinical evidence demonstrating improvements in firmness, elasticity and upper eyelid appearance after one month of use.

Since its launch, R(II) Eyes has established itself as a comprehensive eye contour solution, delivering proven results on key signs of fatigue such as crow’s feet wrinkles, puffiness and dark circles. Today, Teoxane reinforces this efficacy profile with new clinical data that further validate the product’s ability to visibly improve the appearance of the eye area across multiple dimensions of ageing.

Particularly delicate and highly exposed, the eye contour is often the first area to reveal visible signs of fatigue and skin ageing. Beyond wrinkles, dark circles and puffiness, concerns such as loss of firmness, reduced elasticity and upper eyelid sagging can significantly affect the overall appearance of the eyes. Addressing this complexity requires a comprehensive approach capable of targeting several mechanisms simultaneously.

New clinical evidence expands the proven efficacy profile of R(II) Eyes

R(II) Eyes initially demonstrated clinically proven efficacy¹ on some of the most visible signs of eye contour fatigue, including a :

- 24% wrinkles reduction¹
- an immediate 13% reduction in puffiness¹
- 19% reduction in dark circles after 28 days of use¹

Building on these established results, Teoxane has conducted additional clinical evaluations under dermatological supervision to further explore the product’s impact on skin quality and eye contour ageing.

The new findings reveal that after just one month of use:

95%

of users reported improved firmness and volume²

+0.23mm

increase in upper eyelid opening, a measurable tightening effect²

100%

observed improved skin elasticity²

These new clinical outcomes broaden the body of evidence supporting R(II) Eyes and reinforce its positioning as a comprehensive eye contour care capable of addressing both visible signs of fatigue and signs of ageing.

An all-in-one care for the eye contour area

While many eye contour products focus on a single concern, R(II) Eyes adopts a comprehensive approach to address the main concerns of the eye area simultaneously: wrinkles, dark circles, puffiness, loss of elasticity, reduced firmness, and upper eyelid sagging.

Thanks to this multi-correction approach, R(II) Eyes positions itself as a complete solution for consumers seeking a daily eye care care that combines proven efficacy, immediate visible benefits, and Teoxane’s aesthetic expertise.

A Formula Inspired by Teoxane’s aesthetic expertise

Developed by Teoxane Laboratories, R(II) Eyes is based on a comprehensive skin quality approach, combining carefully selected ingredients designed to target the various concerns associated with the eye contour area.

Its formula combines³:

PATENTED PROCESS[®]

RHA RESILIENT HYALURONIC ACID[®]

Formulated according to a patented process, RHA[®] contains both crosslinked and non-crosslinked hyaluronic acids. Developed with Teoxane’s unique crosslinking technology to help support skin hydration and overall skin quality.

HAMAMELIS EXTRACT

Hamamelis extract acts through a combination of antioxidant, astringent, and soothing mechanisms. These actions help reduce the appearance of puffiness and dark circles while improving overall skin comfort and appearance

MARINE EXOPOLYSACCHARIDE

Marine Exopolysaccharide forms a biomimetic tightening film on the skin surface. It provides an immediate smoothing effect by mechanically tightening the skin and reducing the appearance of fine lines and wrinkles

To complement these benefits, its lightly tinted texture enriched with pearlescent pigments instantly brightens the eye area, while the metallic applicator delivers a refreshing sensation.
